

Arms and The Man

George Bernard SHAW (1856 – 1950)

Read by Phil Chenevert

Arms and the Man is a comedy written by George Bernard Shaw, and was first produced in 1894 and published in 1898, and has become one of the most popular of his plays. Like his other works, Arms and the Man questions conventional values and uses war and love as his satirical targets. He delightfully pops the bubble of the 'brave soldier' always wishing to charge into battle and shows (I think) how people stay the same whether in uniform or not and are not magically changed into different people. A cautious soldier can be just as admirable as a reckless one. - Summary by Phil Chenevert.

Running time: 2 h : 51 m : 44 s

1	Act I	47:31
2	Act II	54:21
3	Act III	1:09:52

For further information, including links to online text, reader information, RSS feeds, or other formats (if available), please go to the LibriVox catalog page (librivox.org) for this recording.

This recording is in the public domain and may be reproduced, distributed, or modified without permission. For more information or to volunteer, visit librivox.org.

Cover picture: Adapted from the poster of „The Chocolate Soldier“, image from the Federal Music Project, belonging to the US Work Projects Administration Poster Collection, available in the US Library of Congress . <http://hdl.loc.gov/loc.pnp/cph.3b48790> Copyright expired in U.S., Canada, EU and all countries with author's life +70 yrs laws. Cover design by Basquetteur. This design is in the public domain.